NEW QUESTION: 3 Your network includes several virtual machines (VMs) that are distributed across a Windows Server 2008 R2 Hyper-V failover cluster.You need to be able to configure the VMs in a Network Load Balancing (NLB) cluster.What should you do on each VMs network adapter?A. Enable MAC address spoofing.B. Enable TCP Offload Engine (TOE).C. Disable MAC address spoofing.D. Disable TCP Offload Engine (TOE).Answer: AExplanation:In Windows Server 2008 R2 Hyper-V and Hyper-V Server 2008 R2, there is a new option (Enable Spoofing Of MAC Addresses) in the virtual network adapter settings to enable, as you can probably guess, spoofing of MAC addresses.If you do not select this option and disallow MAC address spoofing, the following rules are enforced:The virtual switch port that connects the virtual network adapter sends and receives packets that containany valid MAC address.The virtual network adapter MAC address cannot be moved or associated with another virtual switch port.The virtual switch port does not forward unicast flooded packets (packets that are forwarded to all switchports if the destination MAC address is not found in the switch forwarding table) to the virtual networkadapter.You cannot override the virtual network adapter MAC address configuration using the Network Address keyin the virtual machine registry.If you select the option to enable MAC address spoofing, the MAC address can be learned on other ports,and the following actions will be allowed:The virtual switch port that connects the virtual network adapter can send and receive packets that containany MAC address.The virtual switch port dynamically learns of new MAC addresses and the virtual switch can add them in itsforwarding table.The virtual switch port will receive and forward unicast flooded packets to the virtual network adapter.You can override the virtual network adapter MAC address configuration using the NetworkAddress key inthe virtual machine registry.If you place the virtual network adapter in promiscuous mode and enable MAC address spoofing, the virtualnetwork adapter will be allowed to receive unicast flooded packetsPing Dropped in Hyper-V in Server 2008 R2 of NLB When you Configure your NLB host in unicast mode you wont be able to access dedicated IPs of your Guest VMs. However here a by Spoofing your VMs MAC IDs you can access your NLB host. By default your this will be turn off.You can enable theSpoofing ofMAC addresses.Remember: Enabling this option will give ability to VMs to Override their MAC and send and receive traffic using any MAC ids.Virtual switch in Hyper is Layer-2 switches. hence if Malicious VMs start sending packet with MAC owned byother machine then it may cause security flaws (DOS attacks).NLB -Hyper-V Virtual Machines Assumptions:Guest Operating System is Windows 2008 R2 HyperV Host is running Windows 2008 R2 Each VM guest has two network adapters presented to it. NLB Cluster will be in (UNICAST) ModeConfiguration Steps:Configure Network Adapters Configure Network Load Balancing Validate ConfigurationScenario: Desired NLB ConfigurationThe image below illustrates the desired NLB topology/configuration for this article. Note: This particular scenario is used for an Intranet, so the NLB and CorpNet networks are on the same network. If we desired external access to the NLB cluster, the NLB and CorpNet would most likely be on seperate networks.Configure Network Adapters Note: When runningUnicast, the NIC that has NLB enabled will have its' MAC Address overwritten (Each Node will share the MAC address assigned to the NLB Cluster). Because of this there will be additional configuration required within HyperV for the assigned NLB network interfaces. 1.Install on the Guest VM Windows 2008, and install the latest patches and drivers.2.Create DNS A-Record for the Cluster Name. My cluster name isNLBCluster.contoso.com3.On each Guest, in Windows Rename the network connections accordingly. I have mine as such:4.On each Guest VM, in Windows, Configure each Network Adapter based on your network address scheme. The required configuration information for each Network adapter is as follows: NLBNIC: IP Address and Subnet Only ConfiguredMetric: 20WINS: Disable Netbios IMPORTANT: DO NOT MANUALLY select the "network load balancing (NLB) connection"!! This will happen automatically during the NLB Cluster creation process. If its manually selected the NLB Cluster creation will not pick up this network interface as an option. This image is merely to serve as a reference to remove all connections accept NLB and TCP.Corp NetworkNIC: Corporate network configuration (IP, GW, DNS). Metric: 1Binding OrderCorp Network NLB Remote Access ConnectionsMy Server NIC configuration: Server1Server25. Once the NICs are configured... Run anIPCONFIG /alland note theIPandMAC Addressassignment forboth Network Interfaces.Note:Once the cluster is created, the designated cluster Network Interface will receive a new MACAddress, and NLB Property will be Enabled on the Network Interface (NLB)6.IMPORTANT!!! By defaultWindows 2008 has IP Forwarding disabled. In order for this configuration with TWO NLB NICs to work and Not Define a Gateway to adhere to best practices, you have to enable IP forwarding on theNLB NICso that requests sent to it are forwarded to the other; otherwise backend communication will not function. Below is the simple command line to run on each NLB Node.Note: Be sure to open the command prompt as "Run as Administrator", also if you are running IPV6 make sure to substitute the ipv4 with ipv6.My Scenario:netsh interface ipv4 set int "NLB" forwarding=enabled7. Next proceed with creating and configuring the new NLB Cluster.Create and Configure Network Load Balancing ClusterThis process will detail the process for creating and configuring the NLB Cluster.1.Log into one of the Guest Virtual Machines (NLB Nodes). In my caseServer1(First node in the cluster)2.Right ClickNetwork Load Balancing Manager, and select "RUN AS ADMINSTRATOR".3.In the console tree, right-clickNetwork Load Balancing Clusters, and then clickNew Cluster.4.In theHostbox, type the computer name (Server1.contoso.com) of the guest virtual machine that will bethe first host of the cluster, and then clickConnect. (Host Name, not cluster name)5.In the Interfaces available for configuring a new cluster list, select a network adapter for theNLBcluster,and then clickNext.6.Under interfaces selectNLBNetwork Interface.Note: If your NLB Network interface does not show up in the list, verify that the "Network Load Balancing"property is un checked within the network interface properties. NLB will not pick up the network interface ifthat checkbox is already enabled.7.On the New Cluster:Cluster IP Addressesscreen, define the virtual IP address. In my case its the IPAddress assigned toNLBCluster.contoso.com A-Record (192.168.1.130)for the NLB cluster.Important:Note the MAC addressin the Network Address property, and then clickNext. You will use this MAC address later.8.UnderCluster operation mode, clickUnicast, and then clickNext.9.Complete the rest of the NLB configuration, and then shut down the virtual machine.10.At this point you have a single node within the NLB Cluster, and the MAC Address has been changed. To verify, run anIPCONFIG /ALL, and check to see if the NLB Network Connection changed from what was previously noted, to a new MAC Address. In my case, mine changed from (Previous MAC:00:15:5D:CC:16:5Eto02:BF:0A:01:0A:A0).11.If you didn't do it in step 7, be sure to note the new MAC Address, andshutdownthe Node (Server1).12.Once the Guest (Server1) is shutdown, open HyperV Manager and Select theServer1 > Settings > Network Adapter(The one assigned to NLB).13.Under MAC Address, set the MAC Address toSTATIC, and enter the MAC Address assigned to the NLB Network Interface (Note earlier).15. Next select "Enable spoofing of MAC addresses", and select apply.Add the second VM to the NLB Cluster 1.Continuing from step 15, startup the VM (Server1) and log into Windows.2.OpenNetwork Load Balancing Manager(RUN AS ADMINISTRATOR).3.Right click theNLB cluster, and then clickAdd Host To Cluster.4.Specify the name of the new host (Server2), and then clickConnect. The network adapters that are available for the host are listed at the bottom of the dialog box. 5.Click the network adapter that you want to use for Network Load Balancing (In my caseNLB), and then clickNext.6.The IP address that is configured on this network adapter is the dedicated IP address (192.168.1.132) for this host.7.Complete the rest of the NLB configuration, and then shut down the virtual machine (Server2).8.Once the Guest (Server2) is shutdown, open HyperV Manager and Select theServer1 > Settings > Network Adapter(The one assigned to NLB). 9.Under MAC Address, set the MAC Address toSTATIC, and enter the MAC Address assigned to the NLB Network Interface (Note earlier).10.Next select "Enable spoofing of MAC addresses", and select apply.11.Next, Start the virtual machine (Server2).12.Open Network Load Balancing Manager.13.Verify that the NLB cluster is up as well as both nodes.14.At this point you now have a two-node NLB Cluster, each node sharing the same MAC address on the NLB network interface.

NEW QUESTION: 4大手保険会社が、OCI Autonomous Databaseを使用してKubernetes用のOracle Cloud Infrastructure（OCI）Container Engineで顧客ポータルをホストしています。彼らのサポートチームは、ポータルへのSQLインジェクションの試行とクロスサイトスクリプティング攻撃の多くを発見しました。これは、運用環境に影響を与え始めています。この攻撃を緩和するために何を実装する必要がありますか？A. ネットワークセキュリティリストB. ネットワークセキュリティファイアウォールC. WebアプリケーションファイアウォールD. ネットワークセキュリティグループAnswer: C Explanation:ExplanationWeb Application Firewall (WAF):Oracle Cloud Infrastructure Web Application Firewall (WAF) is a cloud-based, Payment Card Industry (PCI) compliant, global security service that protects applications from malicious and unwanted internet traffic.WAF can protect any internet facing endpoint, providing consistent rule enforcement across a customer's applications.WAF provides you with the ability to create and manage rules for internet threats including Cross-Site Scripting (XSS), SQL Injection and other OWASP-defined vulnerabilities. Unwanted bots can be mitigated while tactically allowed desirable bots to enter. Access rules can limit based on geography or the signature of the request.The global Security Operations Center (SOC) will continually monitor the internet threat landscape acting as an extension of your IT infrastructure.References: https://docs.cloud.oracle.com/en-us/iaas/Content/WAF/Concepts/overview.htm
