You can use the Add-ManagementRoleEntry cmdlet to add management role entries to an existing management role.*The New-ManagementRoleEntry cmdlet is used to add scripts and non-Exchange cmdlets to existing top-level management roles. You can add management roles to the new assignment policy when you create it, or you can create the assignment policy and add roles later. You must assign at least one management role to the new assignment policy for it to apply permissions to a mailbox. Without any roles assigned to the new assignment policy, users assigned to it won't be able to manage their mailbox configuration. To assign a management role after the assignment policy has been created, use the New-ManagementRoleAssignment cmdlet. Reference: Exchange 2013, New-RoleAssignmentPolicy roleassignmentpolicy
