NEW QUESTION: 1 Anonymizer sites access the Internet on your behalf, protecting your personal information from disclosure. An anonymizer protects all of your computer's identifying information while it surfs for you, enabling you to remain at least one step removed from the sites you visit. You can visit Web sites without allowing anyone to gather information on sites visited by you. Services that provide anonymity disable pop-up windows and cookies, and conceal visitor's IP address. These services typically use a proxy server to process each HTTP request. When the user requests a Web page by clicking a hyperlink or typing a URL into their browser, the service retrieves and displays the information using its own server. The remote server (where the requested Web page resides) receives information on the anonymous Web surfing service in place of your information. In which situations would you want to use anonymizer? (Select 3 answers)A. To protect your privacy and Identity on the InternetB. To bypass blocking applications that would prevent access to Web sites or parts of sites that you want to visit.C. Post negative entries in blogs without revealing your IP identityD. Increase your Web browsing bandwidth speed by using AnonymizerAnswer: A,B,C
