NEW QUESTION: 1In deciding whether to have a work group make a decision or to make the decision personally, a manager should consider A. When the decision is needed. B. How important it is for the work group to accept the decision. C. All of the answers are correct. D. Whether there are strong individuals in the work group who could dominate the decisionmaking process. Answer: C Explanation: If the decision is needed immediately, group decision making may not be indicated because assembling the group and the often inefficient interactions of its members are time consuming. Another disadvantage of group decision making is the possibility a few people will dominate the deliberations. If they lack ability, the group may not be effective. An advantage of the decision-making process is that it fosters acceptance by the members of the group. Participation by the individuals who will be required to implement the solution adopted increases the likelihood of its success.

NEW QUESTION: 2A developer creates a Web service for his company's inventory service. He uses servlet container to deploy the web service and wants to enable basic authentication for all web service invocations. Where does the developer configure security requirements for the above case? A. sun-jaxws.xml B. webservices.xml C. web.xml D. domain.xml Answer: C

NEW QUESTION: 3Terraform will sync all resources in state by default for every plan and apply, hence for larger infrastructures this can slow down terraform plan and terraform apply commands? A. False B. True Answer: B Explanation: Explanation For small infrastructures, Terraform can query your providers and sync the latest attributes from all your resources. This is the default behavior of Terraform: for every plan and apply, Terraform will sync all resources in your state. For larger infrastructures, querying every resource is too slow. Many cloud providers do not provide APIs to query multiple resources at once, and the round trip time for each resource is hundreds of milliseconds. On top of this, cloud providers almost always have API rate limiting so Terraform can only request a certain number of resources in a period of time. Larger users of Terraform make heavy use of the -refresh=false flag as well as the -target flag in order to work around this. In these scenarios, the cached state is treated as the record of truth.<https://www.terraform.io/docs/state/purpose.html>
