There are more than 5,000 locations worldwide.Physical LocationsCurrently a server at each location hosts a SQL Server 2012 instance. Each instance contains a database called `StoreTransactions` that stores all transactions from point of sale and uploads summary batches nightly. Each server belongs to the COFFECORP domain. Local computer accounts access the `StoreTransactions` database at each store using sysadmin and datareaderwriter roles.Planned changesFourth Coffee has three major initiatives:The IT department must consolidate the point of sales database infrastructure.The marketing department plans to launch a mobile application for micropayments.The finance department wants to deploy an internal tool that will help detect fraud.Initially, the mobile application will allow customers to make micropayments to buy coffee and other items on the company web site. These micropayments may be sent as gifts to other users and redeemed within an hour of ownership transfer. Later versions will generate profiles based on customer activity that will push texts and ads generated by an analytics application. When the consolidation is finished and the mobile application is in production, the micropayments and point of sale transactions will use the same database.

Existing Environment

Some stores have been using several pilot versions of the micropayment application. Each version currently is in a database that is independent from the point of sales systems. Some versions have been used in field tests at local stores, and others are hosted at corporate servers. All pilot versions were developed by using SQL Server 2012.

Existing Support Infrastructure

The proposed database for consolidating micropayments and transactions is called CoffeeTransactions. The database is hosted on a SQL Server 2014 Enterprise Edition instance and has the following file structures:

Business Requirements

General Application Solution Requirements

The database infrastructure must support a phased global rollout of the micropayment application and consolidation. The consolidated micropayment and point of sales database will be into a CoffeeTransactions database. The infrastructure also will include a new CoffeeAnalytics database for reporting on content from CoffeeTransactions. Mobile applications will interact most frequently with the micropayment database for the following activities:

- Retrieving the current status of a micropayment;
- Modifying the status of the current micropayment; and
- Canceling the micropayment.

The mobile application will need to meet the following requirements:

- Communicate with web services that assign a new user to a micropayment by using a stored procedure named `usp_AssignUser`.
- Update the location of the user by using a stored procedure named `usp_AddMobileLocation`.

The fraud detection service will need to meet the following requirements:

- Query the current open micropayments for users who own multiple micropayments by using a stored procedure named `usp_LookupConcurrentUsers`.
- Persist the current user locations by using a stored procedure named `usp_MobileLocationSnapshot`.
- Look at the status of micropayments and mark micropayments for internal investigations.
- Move micropayments to `dbo.POSException` table by using a stored procedure named `ups_DetectSuspiciousActivity`.
- Detect micropayments that are flagged with a `StatusId` value that is greater than 3 and that occurred within the last minute.

The CoffeeAnalytics database will combine imports of the `POSTransaction` and `MobileLocation` tables to create a `UserActivity` table for reports on the trends in activity. Queries against the `UserActivity` table will include aggregated calculations on all columns that are not used in filters or groupings.

Micropayments

Micropayments need to be updated and queried for only a week after their creation by the mobile application or fraud detection services.

Performance

The most critical performance requirement is keeping the response time for any queries of the `POSTransaction` table predictable and fast. Web service queries will take a higher priority in performance tuning decisions over the fraud detection agent queries.

Scalability

Queries of the user of a micropayment cannot return while the micropayment is being updated, but can show different users during different stages of the transaction. The fraud detection service frequently will run queries over the micropayments that occur over different time periods that range between 30 seconds and ten minutes. The `POSTransaction` table must have its structure optimized for hundreds of thousands of active micropayments that are updated frequently. All changes to the `POSTransaction` table will require testing in order to confirm the expected throughput that will support the first year's performance requirements.

Updates of a user's location can tolerate some data loss. Initial testing has determined that the `POSTransaction` and `POSException` tables will be migrated to an in-memory optimized table.

Availability

In order to minimize disruption at local stores during consolidation, nightly processes will restore the databases to a staging server at corporate headquarters.

Technical Requirements

Security

The sensitive nature of financial transactions in the store databases requires certification of the COFFECORP Auditors group at corporate that will perform audits of the data. Members of the COFFECORP Auditors group cannot have sysadmin or datawriter access to the database.

Compliance requires that the data stewards have access to any restored `StoreTransactions` database without changing any security settings at a database level. Nightly batch processes are run by the services account in the COFFECORP StoreAgent group and need to be able to restore and verify the schema of the store databases match. No Windows group should have more access to store databases than is necessary.

Maintainability

You need to anticipate when

POSTransaction table will need index maintenance. When the daily maintenance finishes, micropayments that are one week old must be available for queries in UserActivity table but will be queried most frequently within their first week and will require support for in-memory queries for data within first week. The maintenance of the UserActivity table must allow frequent maintenance on the day's most recent activities with minimal impact on the use of disk space and the resources available to queries. The processes that add data to the UserActivity table must be able to update data from any time period, even while maintenance is running. The index maintenance strategy for the UserActivity table must provide the optimal structure for both maintainability and query performance. All micropayments queries must include the most permissive isolation level available for the maximum throughput. In the event of unexpected results, all stored procedures must provide error messages in text message to the calling web service. Any modifications to stored procedures will require the minimal amount of schema changes necessary to increase the performance. Performance Stress testing of the mobile application on the proposed CoffeeTransactions database uncovered performance bottlenecks. The sys.dm_os_wait_stats Dynamic Management View (DMV) shows high wait_time values for WRTTELOG and PAGEIOLATCHJJP wait types when updating the MobileLocation table. Updates to the MobileLocation table must have minimal impact on physical resources. Supporting Infrastructure The stored procedure usp_LookupConcurrentUsers has the current implementation: The current stored procedure for persisting a user location is defined in the following code: The current stored procedure for managing micropayments needing investigation is defined in the following code: The current table, before implementing any performance enhancements, is defined as follows:

NEW QUESTION: 4 Which two statements are true about the SSH tunnels within a Database as a Service (DBaaS) Cloud environment? A. The server must hold the SSH public and private keys in the SSH authorized_keys file. B. The SSH tunnel must be selected by an access rule to enable remote access. C. DBaaS provides a centralized key server for all SSH connections. D. The client must provide the server with the SSH private key. Answer: B,D Explanation: A: Oracle Database Cloud Service relies on Oracle Compute Cloud Service to provide secure network access to database deployments. You can use the Oracle Database Cloud Service console to perform network access operations such as enabling access to a port on a compute node, or creating new security rules. D: Creating an SSH tunnel enables you to access a specific compute node port by using an SSH connection as the transport mechanism. To create the tunnel, you must have the SSH private key file that matches the public key specified during the database deployment creation process.
