NEW QUESTION: 2 The implementations group has been using the test bed to do a 'proof-of-concept' that requires both Client 1 and Client 2 to access the WEB Server at 209.65.200.241. After several changes to the network addressing, routing scheme, DHCP services, NTP services, layer 2 connectivity, FHRP services, and device security, a trouble ticket has been opened indicating that Client 1 cannot ping the 209.65.200.241 address.Use the supported commands to isolated the cause of this fault and answer the following questions. The fault condition is related to which technology?A. Under the global configuration mode enter no vlan filter test1 vlan-list 10 command.B. Under the global configuration mode enter no access-map vlan 10 command.C. Under the global configuration mode enter no vlan access-map test1 10 command.D. Under the global configuration mode enter no access-list 10 command.Answer: CExplanation:Explanation/Reference:Explanation:On DSW1, VALN ACL, Need to delete the VLAN access-map test1 whose action is to drop access-list 10; specifically 10.2.1.3Testlet 1Topology Overview (Actual Troubleshooting lab design is for below network design) Client Should have IP 10.2.1.3EIGRP 100 is running between switch DSW1 & DSW2OSPF

DSW1, DSW2 and R4 are running EIGRP with an AS of 10. Redistribution is enabled where necessary.R1 is running a BGP AS with a number of 65001. This AS has an eBGP connection to AS 65002 in the ISP's network. Because the company's address space is in the private range.R1 is also providing NAT translations between the inside (10.1.0.0/16 & 10.2.0.0/16) networks and outside (209.65.0.0/24) network.ASW1 and ASW2 are layer 2 switches.NTP is enabled on all devices with 209.65.200.226 serving as the master clock source.The client workstations receive their IP address and default gateway via R4's DHCP server.The default gateway address of 10.2.1.254 is the IP address of HSRP group 10 which is running on DSW1 and DSW2.In the IPv6 layer 3 topology R1, R2, and R3 are running OSPFv3 with an OSPF process number 6.DSW1, DSW2 and R4 are running RIPng process name RIP_ZONE.The two IPv6 routing domains, OSPF 6 and RIPng are connected via GRE tunnel running over the underlying IPv4 OSPF domain. Redistrution is enabled where necessary.Recently the implementation group has been using the test bed to do a 'proof-of-concept' on several implementations. This involved changing the configuration on one or more of the devices. You will be presented with a series of trouble tickets related to issues introduced during these configurations.Note: Although trouble tickets have many similar fault indications, each ticket has its own issue and solution.Each ticket has 3 sub questions that need to be answered & topology remains same.Question-1 Fault is found on which device,Question-2 Fault condition is related to,Question-3 What exact problem is seen & what needs to be done for solutionSolutionSteps need to follow as below:-1. When we check on client 1 & Client 2 desktop we are not receiving DHCP address from R4 ipconfig ----- Client will be receiving IP address 10.2.1.32. From Client PC we can ping 10.2.1.254....3. But IP 10.2.1.3 is able to ping from R4, R3, R2, R1.4. Since the problem is R1 (2026::111:1) is not able to ping loopback of DSW1 (2026::102:1).5. Kindly check for neighbourship of routers as IPV6.... As per design below neighbourship should be present for IPV6R1 ---R2 --- R3 --- R4--- DSW1 & DSW2 ----- Neighbourship between devices of IPV6R2 IPV6 OSPF neighbourship is with R1R3 IPV6 OSPF neighbourship is with R46. As per above snapshot we cannot see IPV6 neighbourship between R2 & R3 when checked interface configuration ipv6 ospf area 0 is missing on R2 which is connected to R37. Change required: On R2, IPV6 OSPF routing, Configuration is required to add ipv6 ospf 6 area 0 under interface serial 0/0/0.23

NEW QUESTION: 3 In which of the following situations would static routing be the most appropriate routing mechanism?A. when the router has redundant links to a router within the same ASB. when the router has a single link to a router within a different ASC. when the router has a single link to a router within the same ASD. when the router has redundant links to a router within a different ASAnswer: BExplanation:Explanation/Reference:Section: Addressing and Routing Protocols in an Existing Network Explanation Explanation:Static routing would be the most appropriate routing mechanism for a router that has a single link to a router within a different autonomous system (AS). An AS is defined as the collection of all areas that are managed by a single organization. Because an interdomain routing protocol, such as Border Gateway Protocol (BGP), can be complicated to configure and uses a large portion of a router's resources, static routing is recommended if dynamic routing information is not exchanged between routers that reside in different ASes. For example, if you connect a router to the Internet through a single Internet service provider (ISP), it is not necessary for the router to run BGP, because the router will use this single connection to the Internet for all traffic that is not destined to the internal network.External BGP (eBGP), not static routing, would be the most appropriate routing protocol for a router that has redundant links to a router within a different AS. BGP is typically used to exchange routing information between ASes, between a company and an ISP, or between ISPs. BGP routers within the same AS communicate by using internal

BGP (iBGP), and BGP routers in different ASes communicate by using eBGP.An intradomain routing protocol, such as Enhanced Interior Gateway Routing Protocol (EIGRP) or Open Shortest Path First (OSPF), would be the most appropriate routing protocol for a router that has a single link or redundant links to a router within the same AS.Reference:CCDA 200-310 Official Cert Guide, Chapter 10, Static Versus Dynamic Route Assignment, pp. 380-381
