NEW QUESTION: 1You have deployed a web application targeting a global audience across multiple Oracle Cloud Infrastructure (OCI) regions.You decide to use Traffic Management Geo-Location based Steering Policy to serve web requests to users from the region closets to the user. Within each region you have deployed a public load balancer with 4 servers in a backend set. During a DR test disable all web servers in one of the regions however, traffic Management does not automatically direct all users to the other region.Which two are possible causes?A. One of the two working web servers In the other region did not pass Its HTTP health checkB. You did not setup an HTTP Health Check associated with Load Balancer public IP in the disabled region.C. You did not setup a Route Table associated with load Balancer's subnetD. Rather than using Geo-Location based Steering Policy, you should use Failover Policy Type to serve traffic.E. You did not correctly setup the Load Balancer HTTP health check policy associated with backend setAnswer: B,EExplanation:Managing Traffic Management GEOLOCATION Steering PoliciesGeolocation steering policies distribute DNS traffic to different endpoints based on the location of the end user. Customers can define geographic regions composed of originating continent, countries or states/provinces (North America) and define a separate endpoint or set of endpoints for each region.The Health Checks service allows you to monitor the health of IP addresses and hostnames, as measured from geographic vantage points of your choosing, using HTTP and ping probes. After configuring a health check, you can view the monitor's results. The results include the location from which the host was monitored, the availability of the endpoint, and the date and time the test was performed.Also you can Combine Managing Traffic Management GEOLOCATION Steering Policies with Oracle Health Checks to fail over from one region to another The Load Balancing service provides health status indicators that use your health check policies to report on the general health of your load balancers and their components.if you misconfigure the health check Protocol between the Load balancer and backend set that can lead to not get an accurate response as example below If you run a TCP-level health check against an HTTP service, you might not get an accurate response. The TCP handshake can succeed and indicate that the service is up even when the HTTP service is ly configured or having other issues. Although the health check appears good customers might experience transaction failures.

NEW QUESTION: 2A project team that delivers a reusable agnostic service may be tempted to skew the design of the service so that it better fulfills the project's immediate requirements. The _____ role is commonly used to assume ownership over the service in order to prevent this from happening by protecting the service's integrity.A. service analystB. service developerC. None of the above.D. service custodianAnswer: D

NEW QUESTION: 3What command can you enter on a Cisco router so that it can both polled a time server and be polled by a time server
