NEW QUESTION: 1 Which statement is true about Oracle compression?
A. A partitioned table can use only Advanced Compression or only Hybrid Columnar Compression.
B. A non-partitioned table can use Advanced Compression and Hybrid Columnar Compression concurrently.
C. Hybrid Columnar Compression can be defined for a single column.
D. A partitioned table can define the use of Advanced Compression or Hybrid Columnar Compression for each partition.
Answer: A,C
Explanation: C: Tables are organized by column and compressed. This makes it much easier to get similar values together, which enhances the compression greatly. D: It is recommended that HCC be enabled on tables or partitions with no or infrequent DML operations. If frequent DML operations are planned on a table or partition, then the Oracle Advanced Compression Option is better suited for such data.
