NEW QUESTION: 1In 1996, the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) sponsored a treaty under which participating countries would standardize treatment of digital copyrights. One of the items of standardization was the prohibition of altering copyright management information (CMI) that is included with the copyrighted material. CMI is:
A. Product description information
B. A listing of Public keys
C. Licensing and ownership information
D. An encryption algorithm
Answer: C
Explanation:The other answers are distracters. The WIPO digital copyright legislation that resulted in the US was the 1998 Digital Millennium Copyright Act (DMCA). In addition to addressing answer d, the DMCA prohibits trading, manufacturing, or selling in any way that is intended to bypass copyright protection mechanisms. It also addresses Internet Service Providers (ISPs) that unknowingly support the posting of copyrighted material by subscribers. If the ISP is notified that the material is copyrighted, the ISP must remove the material. Additionally, if the posting party proves that the removed material was of lawful use, the ISP must restore the material and notify the copyright owner within 14 business days. Two important rulings regarding the DMCA were made in 2001. The rulings involved DeCSS, which is a program that bypasses the Content Scrambling System (CSS) software used to prevent viewing of DVD movie disks on unlicensed platforms. In a trade secrecy case [DVD-CCA v. Banner], the California Appellate Court overturned a lower court ruling that an individual who posted DeCSS on the Internet had revealed the trade secret of CSS. The appeals court has reversed an injunction on the posting of DeCSS, stating that the code is speech-protected by the First Amendment. The second case [Universal City v. Reimerdes] was the first constitutional challenge to DMCA anti-circumvention rules. The case involved Eric Corley, the publisher of the hacker magazine 2600 Magazine. Corley was covering the DeCSS situation and, as part of that coverage, posted DeCSS on his publications Web site. The trial and appellate courts both ruled that the posting violated the DMCA and was, therefore, illegal. This ruling upheld the DMCA. It appears that there will be more challenges to DMCA in the future.

NEW QUESTION: 2You have a Microsoft SQL Server instance that has a database named DB1. DB1 has data files on drive E and transaction logs on drive L. You perform full backups of DB1 daily and transaction log backups hourly. Drive E fails and is replaced. You need to recover DB1 and prevent any data loss. Which four actions should you perform in sequence? To answer, move the appropriate actions from the list of actions to the answer area and arrange them in the correct order. Select and Place: Answer: Explanation: Explanation Section: Deploy and migrate applications Step 1: Perform a tail-log backup. A tail-log backup captures any log records that have not yet been backed up (the tail of the log) to prevent work loss and to keep the log chain intact. Before you can recover a SQL Server database to its latest point in time, you must back up the tail of its transaction log. The tail-log backup will be the last backup of interest in the recovery plan for the database. Step 2: Restore a full backup. Backups must be restored in the order in which they were created. Before you can restore a particular transaction log backup, you must first restore the following previous backups without rolling back uncommitted transactions, that is WITH NORECOVERY: The full database backup and the last differential backup, if any, taken before the particular transaction log backup. Step 3: Restore the log backups. Log backups must be applied in the sequence in which they were created, without any gaps in the log chain. Step 4: Restore the tail-log backups. NEW QUESTION: 3 DRAG DROP Drag each category on the left to its corresponding router output line on the right. Each router output line is the result of a show ip interface command. Not all categories are used. Answer: Explanation: Explanation: A simple way to find out which layer is having problem is to remember this rule: "the first statement is for Layer 1, the last statement is for Layer 2 and if Layer 1 is down then surely Layer 2 will be down too", so you have to check Layer 1 before checking Layer 2. For example, from the output "Serial0/1 is up, line protocol is down" we know that it is a layer 2 problem because the first statement (Serial0/1 is up) is good while the last statement (line protocol is down) is bad. For the statement "Serial0/1 is down, line protocol is down", both layers are down so the problem belongs to Layer 1. There is only one special case with the statement "... is administrator down, line protocol is down". In this case, we know that the port is currently disabled and shut down by the administrators.
