NEW QUESTION: 2Your network contains an Active Directory domain named contoso.com. The domain contains two member servers named Server1 and Server2. All servers run Windows Server 2012 R2. Server1 and Server2 have the Failover Clustering feature installed. The servers are configured as nodes in a failover cluster named Cluster1. You add two additional nodes to Cluster1. You have a folder named Folder1 on Server1 that contains Application data. You plan to provide continuously available access to Folder1. You need to ensure that all of the nodes in Cluster1 can actively respond to the client requests for Folder1. What should you configure?A. Affinity-NoneB. Live migrationC. The host priorityD. Affinity-SingleE. The Scale-Out File ServerF. The failover settingsG. The cluster quorum settingsH. The Handling priorityI. The possible ownerJ. A file server for general useK. The preferred ownerL. Quick migrationAnswer: E
Explanation:Explanation/Reference:Explanation:Scale-Out File Server is a feature that is designed to provide scale-out file shares that are continuously available for file-based server application storage. Scale-out file shares provides the ability to share the same folder from multiple nodes of the same cluster.Note: You can deploy and configure a clustered file server by using either of the following methods:* Scale-Out File Server for Application data (Scale-Out File Server)* File Server for general useScale-Out File Server for Application data (Scale-Out File Server) This clustered file server is introduced in Windows Server 2012 R2 and lets you store server Application data, such as Hyper-V virtual machine files, on file shares, and obtain a similar level of reliability, availability, manageability, and high performance that you would expect from a storage area network. All file shares are online on all nodes simultaneously. File shares associated with this type of clustered file server are called scale-out file shares. This is sometimes referred to as active-active.Reference: Scale-Out File Server for Application Data Overview<http://technet.microsoft.com/en-us/library/hh831349.aspx>

NEW QUESTION: 3 Which choice below is NOT an accurate description of an information policy?
A. Information policies are created after the system's infrastructure has been designed and built.
B. An information policy could be a decision pertaining to use of the organization's fax.
C. Information policy is senior management's directive to create a computer security program.
D. Information policy is a documentation of computer security decisions.
Answer: A
Explanation: Computer security policy is often defined as the documentation of computer security decisions. The term policy has more than one meaning. Policy is senior management's directives to create a computer security program, establish its goals, and assign responsibilities. The term policy is also used to refer to the specific security rules for particular systems. Additionally, policy may refer to entirely different matters, such as the specific managerial decisions setting an organization's e-mail privacy policy or fax security policy. A security policy is an important document to develop while designing an information system, early in the System Development Life Cycle (SDLC). The security policy begins with the organization's basic commitment to information security formulated as a general policy statement. The policy is then applied to all aspects of the system design or security solution.
