NEW QUESTION: 1 Given a limited maximum queue depth, what can an administrator do to potentially improve performance when deploying vSAN iSCSI volumes?
A. Adjust the maximum iSCSI queue depth values
B. Configure multiple VMkernel ports
C. Utilize multiple iSCSI targets.
D. Change the erasure coding to RAID-6
Answer: A
Explanation: Today if you are noticing that your device queues are constantly bumping up to their maximum limits, it would be recommended to increase the Device/LUN depth and use SIOC to help mitigate any potential noisy neighbor problem.

NEW QUESTION: 2 You have an Azure subscription named Subscription1. Subscription1 contains a virtual machine named VM1. You install and configure a web server and a DNS server on VM1. VM1 has the effective network security rules shown in the following exhibit. Use the drop-down menus to select the answer choice that completes each statement based on the information presented in the graphic. NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.
Answer:
Explanation: Box 1: Rule2 blocks ports 50-60, which includes port 53, the DNS port. Internet users can reach the Web server, since it uses port 80. Box 2: If Rule2 is removed internet users can reach the DNS server as well. Note: Rules are processed in priority order, with lower numbers processed before higher numbers, because lower numbers have higher priority. Once traffic matches a rule, processing stops. As a result, any rules that exist with lower priorities (higher numbers) that have the same attributes as rules with higher priorities are not processed.

NEW QUESTION: 3 You develop a set of Power Shell scripts that will run when you deploy new virtual machines (VMs). You need to ensure that the scripts are executed on new VMs. You want to achieve this goal by using the least amount of administrative effort. What should you do?
A. Create a new virtual hard disk (VHD) that contains the scripts.
B. Create a new GPO to execute the scripts as a logon script.
C. Create a SetupComplete.cmd batch file to call the scripts after the VM starts.
D. Set the VMs to execute a custom script extension.
E. Load the scripts to a common file share accessible by the VMs.
Answer: D
Explanation: After you deploy a Virtual Machine you typically need to make some changes before it's ready to use. This is something you can do manually or you could use Remote PowerShell to automate the configuration of your VM after deployment for example. But now there's a third alternative available allowing you customize your VM: the CustomScript extension. This CustomScript extension is executed by the VM Agent and it's very straightforward: you specify which files it needs to download from your storage account and which file it needs to execute. You can even specify arguments that need to be passed to the script. The only requirement is that you execute a .ps1 file.
