You need to ensure that non-compliant NAP clients receive different DHCP options than compliant NAP clients. What should you configure on each server? To answer, select the appropriate options for each server in the answer area.Answer: Explanation: Health Policies Server Options* Health policy on the NAP server.* The DHCP server must be NAP enabled. Note: With DHCP enforcement, a computer must be compliant to obtain an unlimited access IP address configuration from a DHCP server. For noncompliant computers, network access is limited by an IP address configuration that allows access only to the restricted network.
