NEW QUESTION: 2 The city council will certainly vote to approve the new downtown redevelopment plan, despite the objections of environmentalists. After all, most of the campaign contributions received by members of the city council come from real estate development firms, which stand to benefit from the plan.Which of the following statements, if true, would most weaken the argument above?A. Several members of the city council receive sizable campaign contributions from environmental lobbying groups.B. Not every real estate development firm in the city will be able to participate in, and profit from, the new downtown redevelopment plan.C. Members of the city council are required to report the size and source of each campaign contribution they receive.D. Some environmentalists have stated that the new downtown redevelopment plan might be environmentally sound if certain minor modifications are made.E. The members of the city council have often voted in ways that are opposed to the interests of their campaign contributors.Answer: EExplanation:Explanation/Reference: Explanation:

NEW QUESTION: 3 An application running on Amazon EC2 has been experiencing performance issues when accessing anAmazon RDS for Oracle database. The database has been provisioned correctly for average workloads, but there are several usage spikes each day that have saturated the database,causing the application to time out. The application is write-heavy, updating information more often than reading information. A Solutions Architect has been asked to review theapplication design.What should the Solutions Architect recommend to improve performance?A. Change the Amazon RDS instance storage type from General Purpose SSD to provisioned IOPS SSD.B. Put an Amazon Elasticsearch domain in front of the database and use a WriteThrough cache to reducedatabase access during peak periods.C. Put an Amazon ElastiCache cluster in front of the database and use lazy loading to limit database accessduring peak periods.D. Configure an Amazon RDS Auto Scaling group to automatically scale the RDSinstance during load spikes.Answer: A

NEW QUESTION: 4 You are configuring a system on your network that was installed using LiveCD. You configured applied a static IP address to the system. You now need to configure a default router. Assume that name services are file based and the router's IP address is 172.31.10.1.Which two methods should you use to configure a default route on this Oracle Solaris 11 system?A. Add the IP address to the /etc/defaultrouter file and run route add default 172.31.10.1.B. svccfg -s routing/route setprop config/defroute=172.31.10.1;svcadm refresh routing/route; svcadm restart routing/routeC. ipadm set-prop -p defaultrouter=172.31.10.1D. svccfg -s network/physical setprop config/defroute=172.31.10.1;svcadm refresh network/physical; svcadm restart network/physicalE. netadm modify -p ncp DefaultFixed set-prop -p defroute=172.31.10.1Answer: AExplanation:Explanation/Reference:* AI Server Software Requirements include:Default routerEnsure that your AI server has a default route set by using the netstat command to show network status. If your AI server does not have a default route set, you can set a static default route by populating the /etc/ defaultrouter file with the IP address of a static default route for your server's network.* For any currently active NCP (fixed or reactive), use the route command with the -p option to persistently add a route:# route -p add default ip-addressBecause this command applies the specified route to the currently active NCP, the default route is removed and potentially replaced, if the active NCP changes.Incorrect: Not A, Not B: The svccfg command manipulates data in the service configuration repository. svccfg can be invoked interactively, with an individual subcommand, or by specifying a command file that contains a series of subcommands.
