A. Vulnerability scan
B. Baseline reporting
C. Code review
D. Design reviews
Answer: A
Explanation: A vulnerability scan is the process of scanning the network and/or I.T. infrastructure for threats and vulnerabilities. Vulnerabilities include computer systems that do not have the latest security patches installed. The threats and vulnerabilities are then evaluated in a risk assessment and the necessary actions taken to resolve and vulnerabilities. A vulnerability scan is the automated process of proactively identifying security vulnerabilities of computing systems in a network in order to determine if and where a system can be exploited and/or threatened. While public servers are important for communication and data transfer over the Internet, they open the door to potential security breaches by threat agents, such as malicious hackers. Vulnerability scanning employs software that seeks out security flaws based on a database of known flaws, testing systems for the occurrence of these flaws and generating a report of the findings that an individual or an enterprise can use to tighten the network's security. Vulnerability scanning typically refers to the scanning of systems that are connected to the Internet but can also refer to system audits on internal networks that are not connected to the Internet in order to assess the threat of rogue software or malicious employees in an enterprise.

NEW QUESTION: 4 Maurice is the project manager of the NHQ Project and his project team has just finished the project activities. The quality control team reports that the project deliverables are perfect. The only thing left to in the project is to verify scope. This process will be performed by the project stakeholders. Maurice is required to submit a final project report and report on the project performance. Maurice's project had a budget of \$234,000 but the project spent \$245,000. In the final report management wants to know the project's cost performance index (CPI). What value should Maurice report?A. 0B. .96C. -\$11,000D. There is not enough information to know.Answer: BExplanation:Explanation/Reference:Explanation:Cost performance index (CPI) is used to calculate performance efficiencies. It is used in trend analysis to predict future performance. CPI is the ratio of earned value to actual cost. The CPI is calculated based on the following formula: $CPI = \text{Earned Value (EV)} / \text{Actual Cost (AC)}$ If the CPI value is greater than 1, it indicates better than expected performance, whereas if the value is less than 1, it shows poor performance. The CPI value of 1 indicates that the project is right on target. In this instance, the earned value is \$234,000 as the project work is 100 percent. The actual costs are \$245,000.Incorrect Answers:A: This is the variance at completion for the project.C: There is enough information to find the answer.D: This is the schedule performance index value.
