NEW QUESTION: 2 Which two conditions are required by the ASM fast mirror resynchronization to track block changes for a set period of time before dropping the disk from the disk group?
A. disk_repair_time is set to a nondefault value.
B. db_block_checking is enabled.
C. resumable_timeout is set to a nondefault value.
D. block_change_tracking IS enabled.
E. compatibility. rdbms is set to a value of at least 11.1.
F. Redundancy is normal or high.
Answer: E,F
Explanation: ASM Fast Mirror Resync Enabled when COMPATIBLE.RDBMS >= 11.1 Whenever ASM is unable to write an extent, ASM takes the associated disk offline. If the corresponding disk group uses ASM mirroring (NORMAL or HIGH redundancy), at least one mirror copy of the same extent exists on another disk in the disk group. Before Oracle Database 11g, ASM assumed that an offline disk contains only stale data and no longer reads from such disks. Shortly after a disk is put offline, ASM drops it from the disk group by re-creating the extents allocated to the disk on the remaining disks in the disk group using mirrored extent copies. This process is quite resource intensive and can take hours to complete. If the disk is replaced or the failure is repaired, the disk must be added again and another rebalance operation must take place.

NEW QUESTION: 3 Summarize the ruling in Taxman v. Board of Education of Piscataway (1993).
A. Protected classes may not be given preferential treatment during layoffs if they have not been discriminated against or underrepresented before.
B. Employees on FMLA leave may be fired if they break the rules of the company.
C. Employers are vicariously liable for supervisor harassment of employees.
D. Sexual orientation is a protected class.
Answer: A
Explanation: In Taxman v. Board of Education of Piscataway (1993), the Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit ruled that protected classes may not be given preferential treatment during layoffs if they have not been discriminated against or underrepresented before. This case was based on a New Jersey school board's decision to lay off a white employee instead of a black colleague with the exact same amount of seniority. The white teacher charged reverse discrimination, and the Third Circuit agreed that the school board's decision was a violation of Title VII. This case was settled before it could reach the Supreme Court on appeal.
