NEW QUESTION: 2You are developing an ASP.NET Core web application by using an Entity Framework code-first approach. The application uses an Azure SQL Database. The code-first migration is configured to run as part of a continuous integration build. You must add an Azure MySQL Database. This database must use the same schema as the existing Azure SQL Database instance. You need to configure the migration to ensure that the existing TFS build definition remains unchanged. What are two possible ways to achieve this goal? Each correct answer presents a complete solution. NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.
A. Create a new type that derives from DbContext and override the ActiveProvider object. Then, add or apply migrations using this type.
B. Create a separate Migration Assembly than the one containing the DbContext and switch the active provider during build.
C. Use the Entity Framework Core Fluent API to identify database providers.
D. Use the ActiveProvider property to specify the provider to which the migration is applied.
Answer: A, C

NEW QUESTION: 4You administer a cloud service. You plan to host two web applications named contosoWeb and contosoWebSupport. You need to ensure that you can host both applications and qualify for the Azure Service Level Agreement. You want to achieve this goal while minimizing costs. How should you host both applications?
A. in different web roles with one instance in each web role
B. in the same web role with one instance
C. in the same web role with two instances
D. in different web roles with two instances in each web role
Answer: C
Explanation: A cloud service must have at least two instances of every role to qualify for the Azure Service Level Agreement, which guarantees external connectivity to your Internet-facing roles at least 99.95 percent of the time.
Reference: Azure, What is a cloud service?
