NEW QUESTION: 1You administer a Microsoft SQL Server 2008 R2 database that contains a schema named Reporting. The Reporting schema contains store procedures, tables, and views. Stored procedures and views in the Reporting schema access objects that are not contained in the schema. You need to ensure that the DOMAINBusinessReporting Active Directory group meets the following requirements: - Users are able to access objects in the Reporting schema through existing stored procedures. - Users are unable to modify tables and views in the database. What should you grant the DOMAINBusinessReporting group? A. Access to the db_datareader role in the database B. Access to the sysadmin server role C. The EXECUTE permissions on the Reporting schema D. The EXECUTE permissions to each schema that is queried by the stored procedures and views in the Reporting schema Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 2You are implementing a package management solution for a Node.js application by using Azure Artifacts. You need to configure the development environment to connect to the package repository. The solution must minimize the likelihood that credentials will be leaked. Which file should you use to configure each connection? To answer, drag the appropriate files to the correct connections. Each file may be used once, more than once, or not at all. You may need to drag the split bar between panes or scroll to view content NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point. Answer: Explanation: Explanation All Azure Artifacts feeds require authentication, so you'll need to store credentials for the feed before you can install or publish packages. npm uses .npmrc configuration files to store feed URLs and credentials. Azure DevOps Services recommends using two .npmrc files. Feed registry information: The .npmrc file in the project One .npmrc should live at the root of your git repo adjacent to your project's package.json. It should contain a "registry" line for your feed and it should not contain credentials since it will be checked into git. Credentials: The .npmrc file in the user's home folder On your development machine, you will also have a .npmrc in $home for Linux or Mac systems or $env.HOME for win systems. This .npmrc should contain credentials for all of the registries that you need to connect to. The NPM client will look at your project's .npmrc, discover the registry, and fetch matching credentials from $home/.npmrc or $env.HOME/.npmrc.
