NEW QUESTION: 1You have executed this command to change the size of the database buffer cache:SQL> ALTER SYSTEM SET DB_CACHE_SIZE=2516582;System altered.To verify the change in size, you executed this command:Why is the value set to 4194304 and not to 2516582?A. Because 4194304 is the largest nonstandard block size defined in the databaseB. Because 4194304 is the granule sizeC. Because 4194304 is the standard block sizeD. Because 4194304 is the total size of data already available in the database buffer cacheAnswer: B*Explanation: Regardless of whether you are using automatic or manual memory management, you'll find that memory is allocated to the various pools in the SGA in units called granules. A single granule is an area of memory of 4MB, 8MB, or 16MB in size. The granule is the smallest unit of allocation, so if you ask for a lava pool of 5MB and your granule size is 4MB. Oracle will actually allocate 8MB to the lava pool (8 being the smallest number greater than or equal to 5 that is a multiple of the granule size of 4). The size of a granule is determined by the size of your SGA (this sounds recursive to a degree, as the size of the SGA is dependent on the granule size). You can view the granule sizes used for each pool by querying V$SGA_DYNAMIC_COMPONENTS. In fact, we can use this view to see how the total SGA size might affect the size of the granules:

NEW QUESTION: 3Your company has offices in New York and Los Angeles.You have an Azure subscription that contains an Azure virtual network named VNet1. Each office has a site-to-site VPN connection to VNet1.Each network uses the address spaces shown in the following table. You need to ensure that all Internet-bound traffic from VNet1 is routed through the New York office.What should you do? To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area.NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.Answer: Explanation:ExplanationBox 1 : Set-AzureRmVirtualNetworkGatewayDefaultSiteThe Set-AzureRmVirtualNetworkGatewayDefaultSite cmdlet assigns a forced tunneling default site to a virtual network gateway. Forced tunneling provides a way for you to redirect Internet-bound traffic from Azure virtual machines to your on-premises network; this enables you to inspect and audit traffic before releasing it. Forced tunneling is carried out by using a virtual private network (VPN) tunnel; this tunnel requires a default site, a local gateway where all the Azure Internet-bound traffic is redirected.

Set-AzureRmVirtualNetworkGatewayDefaultSite provides a way to change the default site assigned to a gateway. Box 2 : 0.0.0.0/0 Forced tunneling must be associated with a VNet that has a route-based VPN gateway. You need to set a "default site" among the cross-premises local sites connected to the virtual network. Also, the on-premises VPN device must be configured using 0.0.0.0/0 as traffic selectors. Forced Tunneling: The following diagram illustrates how forced tunneling works Reference:
