NEW QUESTION: 4 Which of the following enables the person responsible for contingency planning to focus risk management efforts and resources in a prioritized manner only on the identified risks?A. Residual risksB. Risk assessmentC. Business unitsD. Security controls
Answer: B
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: A risk assessment is a critical part of the disaster recovery planning process. In disaster recovery planning, once you've completed a business impact analysis (BIA), the next step is to perform a risk assessment. Once risks and vulnerabilities have been identified, i.e. after the risk assessment has been completed, four types of defensive responses can be considered: Protective measures Mitigation measures Recovery activities Contingency plans
Incorrect Answers: B: Contingency plans depend on risk assessments, not on residual risks. The residual risk is remaining risk after the security controls have been applied. C: Contingency plans depend on risk assessments, not on Security controls. D: Contingency plans depend on risk assessments, not on Business units.
