NEW QUESTION: 1 Which statement about the NHRP network ID is true? A. It is sent from the spoke to the hub to identify the spoke as a member of the same NHRP domain. B. It is sent between spokes to identify the spokes as members of the same NHRP domain. C. It is sent from the hub to the spoke to identify the hub as a member of the same NHRP domain. D. It is a locally significant ID used to define the NHRP domain for an interface. Answer: D Explanation: The NHRP network ID is used to define the NHRP domain for an NHRP interface and differentiate between multiple NHRP domains or networks, when two or more NHRP domains (GRE tunnel interfaces) are available on the same NHRP node (router). The NHRP network ID is used to help keep two NHRP networks (clouds) separate from each other when both are configured on the same router. The NHRP network ID is a local only parameter. It is significant only to the local router and it is not transmitted in NHRP packets to other NHRP nodes. For this reason the actual value of the NHRP network ID configured on a router need not match the same NHRP network ID on another router where both of these routers are in the same NHRP domain. As NHRP packets arrive on a GRE interface, they are assigned to the local NHRP domain in the NHRP network ID that is configured on that interface. Reference: http://www.cisco.com/c/en/us/td/docs/ios/12_4/ip_addr/configuration/guide/hadnhrp.html
