NEW QUESTION: 2 What is one way in which open standards are Integrated into the HP FlexNetwork architecture?A. To enable seamless operation and scalability the HP FlexNetwork architecture supports only those third-party solutions that are based on open architecturesB. All HP switches and routers are based on a consistent, open software platform, which simplifies network managementC. All HP switches are based on a consistent, open software platform, which simplifies network managementD. The HP FlexNetwork architecture calls for industry-standard protocols at the boundaries of each FlexNetwork building blockAnswer: D Explanation:By using standard protocols at the boundaries, businesses can enable interoperability among the network segments and gain both agility and scale.Note: Industry analysts predict that these trends-service-oriented architectures, servervirtualization, video and collaboration, and widespread mobility-will bring a legacy network to abreaking point if proactive steps are not taken to prepare. According toGartner, businesses that don't segment their network infrastructure will suffer higher costs andincreased vendor lock-in.No longer can the network exist as a single, homogenous entity.There are simply too many variables to consider at any one time. Instead, networks must bedesigned to meet the unique requirements of the data center, corporate campus, and branch office. By segmenting their networks, enterprises will be able to more easily align business initiatives with the underlying network requirements. Instead, enterprises can create functional building blocks that will meet the requirements of the specific application or business service. With this segmentation of functional building blocks, businesses can choose best-in-class solutions that fit their needs, rather than being locked into a one-size-fits-all solution. By using standard protocols at the boundaries, businesses can enable interoperability among the network segments and gain both agility and scale.Reference: FlexNetwork Architecture, Brochure

NEW QUESTION: 3 When an external call is placed from Ajax, they would like the ANI that is sent to the PSTN to be the main number, not the extension. For domestic calls, they would like 10 digits sent; for international calls, they would like to send the country code 1 and the 10 digits. How can this be accomplished?A. In the external call route patterns, set the external phone number mask to the main number.Use 10 digits in the domestic route pattern and 1 followed by the main number digits in the international route patterns.B. Add a translation pattern to the dial peers in the gateway that adds the appropriate digits to the outgoing ANI.C. Use a calling party transform mask for each route group in the corresponding route list configuration. Set the explicit 10-digit main number for domestic calls and 1 followed by the main number for the international route patterns.D. In the directory number configurations, set the prefix digits field to the country code and the 10 digits of the main number. This will be truncated to the 10-digit number for domestic calls and sent out in its entirety for international calls.Answer: C

Explanation:Explanation/Reference:Explanation: Incorrect answer: ABDcalling party transformation mask value is Valid entries for the NANP include the digits 0 through 9; the wildcard characters X, asterisk (*), and octothorpe (#); and the international escape character +.
