NEW QUESTION: 3You work as a Database Designer for Company Inc. The company uses Microsoft Access 2010 for creating and managing databases. You have created a database named Detail. The database consists of a table named Employees with the following fields: Employee NameEmployee IDDepartmentSalaryYou want to view a list of fields in the table. In which of the following views will you open the table?A. Pivot TableB. LayoutC. DesignD. DatasheetAnswer: C*Explanation:In order to view a list of fields in the table, you must open the table in the Design view. The Design view of a table displays its fields and datatypes. New fields can be added to the table and assigned to a datatype. A user cannot insert data in this view.

The datatype of a field can be formatted and other table properties such as field size, validation rule, etc., can be set for the field. Answer option C is incorrect. The PivotTable view of a table can be used to display the data of a table in the desired format. This view cannot be used to create or delete a field or modify its properties. The data can be filtered according to fields. When the PivotTable view is opened, a blank work area is displayed and the columns of the table are displayed in the Pivot Table Field List window. A user has to drag and drop the fields to view the desired result. Reference: Chapter: DATABASE, ADVANCED-LEVEL Objective: Table Design
