NEW QUESTION: 3What is the highest amount a company should spend annually on countermeasures for protecting an asset valued at $1,000,000 from a threat that has an annualized rate of occurrence (ARO) of once every five years and an exposure factor (EF) of 30%?A. $300,000B. $60,000C. $150,000D. $1,500Answer: B*Explanation:Explanation/Reference: Explanation:The exposure factor (EF) represents the percentage of loss a realized threat could have on a certain asset.The annualized rate of occurrence (ARO) is the value that represents the estimated frequency of a specific threat taking place within a 12-month timeframe. The range can be from 0.0 (never) to 1.0 (once a year) to greater than 1 (several times a year) and anywhere in between. For example, if the probability of a fire taking place and damaging our data warehouse is once every ten years, the ARO value is 0.1.In this question, the EF is $$1,000,000 \times 30\% = $300,000$.The ARO is once every five years which equals 0.2 (1 / 5).Therefore, the highest amount a company should spend annually on countermeasures is $$300,000 \times 0.2 = $60,000$.Incorrect Answers:A: The highest amount a company should spend annually on countermeasures is $60,000 not $300,000.B: The highest amount a company should spend annually on countermeasures is $60,000 not $150,000.D: The highest amount a company should spend annually on countermeasures is $60,000 not $1,500.References:Harris, Shon, All In One CISSP Exam Guide, 6th Edition, McGraw-Hill, New York, 2013, p. 87
