NEW QUESTION: 2Which Cisco IPS appliance signature engine defines events that occur in a related manner, within a sliding time interval, as components of a combined signature?A.

Sweep engineB. Meta engineC. Multistring engineD. Service engineAnswer: BExplanation:

The Meta engine defines events that occur in a related manner within a sliding time interval. This engine processes events rather than packets. As signature events are generated, the Meta engine inspects them to determine if they match any or several Meta definitions. The Meta engine generates a signature event after all requirements for the event are met. All signature events are handed off to the Meta engine by the Signature Event Action Processor. The Signature Event Action Processor hands off the event after processing the minimum hits option. Summarization and event action are processed after the Meta engine has processed the component events.
