NEW QUESTION: 1As an administrator, you have to define a value set that meets the following criteria:1.The value set should be associated with a list of approved values.2.The segment or parameter using the value set that you defined must appear after the segment or parameter using the Independent value set.3.After a value from the Category value set is specified, only the appropriate values from the Item value set should be displayed. Identify the validation type that you would use when defining the value set with these three requirements.A. DependentB. TableC. IndependentD. NoneE. Special*Answer: A*Explanation:Dependent:A dependent value set is similar to an independent value set, except that the available values in the list and the meaning of a given value depend on which independent value was selected in a prior segment of the flexfield structure. You can think of a dependent value set as a collection of little value sets, with one little set for each independent value in the corresponding independent value set. You must define your independent value set before you define the dependent value set that depends on it.Reference: Choosing a Validation Type for Your Value Set

NEW QUESTION: 2You manage a large datacenter that has limited physical space.You plan to extend your datacenter to Azure.You need to create a connection that supports a multiprotocol label switching (MPLS) virtual private network.Which connection type should you use?A.
