NEW QUESTION: 1 Jacob is looking through a traffic log that was captured using Wireshark. Jacob has come across what appears to be SYN requests to an internal computer from a spoofed IP address. What is Jacob seeing here?A. He has found evidence of an ACK flood.B. He is seeing a SYN/ACK attack.C. Jacob is seeing a SYN flood.D. Jacob is seeing a Smurf attack.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION: 2 Which of the following presents an inherent risk with no distinct identifiable preventive controls?A. VirusesB. Unauthorized application shutdownC. PiggybackingD. Data diddlingAnswer: D
Explanation: Data diddling involves changing data before they are entered into the computer. It is one of the most common abuses, because it requires limited technical knowledge and occurs before computer security can protect the data. There are only compensating controls for data diddling. Piggybacking is the act of following an authorized person through a secured door and can be prevented by the use of deadman doors. Logical piggybacking is an attempt to gain access through someone who has the rights, e.g., electronically attaching to an authorized telecommunication link to possibly intercept transmissions. This could be prevented by encrypting the message. Viruses are malicious program code inserted into another executable code that can self-replicate and spread from computer to computer via sharing of computer diskettes, transfer of logic over telecommunication lines or direct contact with an infected machine. Antiviral software can be used to protect the computer against viruses. The shutdown of an application can be initiated through terminals or microcomputers connected directly (online) or indirectly (dial-up line) to the computer. Only individuals knowing the high-level logon ID and password can initiate the shutdown process, which is ineffective if there are proper access controls.
