NEW QUESTION: 2In which type of business organization are income taxes always required to be paid by the entity on profit earned as well as by the owners upon distribution thereof? A. Limited liability company. B. Subchapter S corporation. C. General partnership. D. Subchapter C corporation. Answer: D Explanation: Choice "c" is correct. A Subchapter C corporation is taxed as an entity for income tax purposes. Additionally, distributions made to stockholders are treated as taxable income to the stockholders. [Note that this type of corporation is more often called a C corporation instead of a Subchapter C corporation.] Choice "a" is incorrect. A general partnership is not taxed as a separate entity for income tax purposes. Choice "b" is incorrect. An LLC is not taxed as a separate entity for income tax purposes unless the LLC specifically elects to be taxed like a corporation. [Of course, the word "always" in the question takes care of that.] Choice "d" is incorrect. A Subchapter S corporation is taxed as a partnership. Thus, it is not taxed as a separate entity for income tax purposes. [Note that this type of corporation is more often called an S corporation instead of a Subchapter S corporation.]
