NEW QUESTION: 1You administer the Hyper-V environment for a large organization. The organization uses Windows Server 2012 R2 servers that have the Hyper-V role installed and System Center 2012 R2 Virtual Machine Manager (VMM). You create a virtual machine template that has the Operations Manager 2012 R2 agent pre-installed. You receive the following Operations console alert for all domain controller VMs that use the VM template: The script 'AD Replication Partner Op Master Consistency' Failed to create object. 'McActiveDir.ActiveDirectory'. This is an unexpected error. The error returned was 'ActiveX component can't create object' (OxlAD) The Active Directory Management Pack Objects (OOMADs) components are not installed on the Domain Controller. These components are required for the monitoring scripts to run successfully. See Alert Knowledge for additional details. You need to correct the issue for the virtual machines that use the template. What should you do? A. In the Administration pane on the Operations console, create a Windows Run As Account containing a user account that is a member of the Domain Admins security group. Associate this Run As Account with the AD MP Account Run As Profile. B. In the Administration pane on the Operations Console, find the affected agent-managed computers and enable agent proxy. C. Configure the agent to run as a user account that is a member of the Domain Admins security group. D. Install the Active Directory Management Pack helper object on the managed computers. Answer: D Explanation: The Active Directory Management Pack Objects (OOMADs) components are not installed on the Domain Controller. These components are required for the monitoring scripts to run successfully.
