Explanation: D: Handling "Unable to connect on port 22" error message Possible causes include: There is no firewall rule allowing SSH access on the port. SSH access on port 22 is enabled on * all Compute Engine instances by default. If you have disabled access, SSH from the Browser will not work. If you run sshd on a port other than 22, you need to enable the access to that port with a custom firewall rule. The firewall rule allowing SSH access is enabled, but is not configured to allow connections * from GCP Console services. Source IP addresses for browser-based SSH sessions are dynamically allocated by GCP Console and can vary from session to session.
F: Handling "Could not connect, retrying..." error You can verify that the daemon is running by navigating to the serial console output page and looking for output lines prefixed with the accounts-from-metadata: string. If you are using a standard image but you do not see these output prefixes in the serial console output, the daemon might be stopped. Reboot the instance to restart the daemon. References:

When you are finished performing all the tasks, click the 'Next' button. Note that you cannot return to the lab once you click the 'Next' button. Scoring occurs in the background while you complete the rest of the exam. Overview The following section of the exam is a lab. In this section, you will perform a set of tasks in a live environment.
