NEW QUESTION: 1 A client was involved in a motor vehicle accident in which the seat belt was not worn. The client is exhibiting crepitus, decreased breath sounds on the left, complains of shortness of breath, and has a respiratory rate of 34/min. Which of the following assessment findings should concern the nurse the most?
A. trachea deviating to the right
B. arterial blood gases (ABGs) with a PaO₂ of 92 and PaCO₂ of 40 mmHg
C. barrel-chested appearance
D. temperature of 102° F and a productive cough
Answer: A
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: A mediastinal shift is indicative of a tension pneumothorax along with the other symptoms in the question. Because the individual was involved in an MVA, assessment is targeted at acute traumatic injuries to the lungs, heart, or chest wall rather than other conditions indicated in the other choices. Choice 1 is common with pneumonia. Values in Choice 2 are not alarming. Choice 4 is typical of someone with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD). A tension pneumothorax is a dangerous complication and a medical emergency where entering air cannot escape by the same route and pressure within the pleural cavity increases, resulting in complete collapse of the lung. A mediastinal shift to the unaffected side and a downward displacement of the diaphragm can be observed.
Physiological Adaptation

NEW QUESTION: 2 Refer to the exhibit. All of the routers on this network are running RIP. If you edit the R3 RIP process configuration to reduce the number of hops from R3 to R1, which statement about the configuration change is true?
A. Configuring no passive-interface for GigabitEthernet0/1 in the R3 RIP process reduces the number of hops to R1 by 3.
B. Configuring no passive-interface for GigabitEthernet0/0 in the R3 RIP process reduces the number of hops to R1 by 1.
C. Configuring no passive-interface for GigabitEthernet0/0 in the R3 RIP process reduces the number of hops to R1 by 2.
D. Configuring no passive-interface for GigabitEthernet0/1 in the R3 RIP process reduces the number of hops to R1 by 1.
Answer: C
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: By changing the link from R3 to R2 to not be passive, traffic can then take the direct route from R3-R2-R1 instead of the longer path of R3-R6-R5-R4-R1, resulting in two less hops.

NEW QUESTION: 3 Refer to the exhibit. Which statement describes the effect on the network if FastEthernet0/1 goes down temporarily? A. FastEthernet0/2 stops forwarding traffic until FastEthernet0/1 comes back up. B. FastEthernet0/1 goes into standby. C. FastEthernet0/2 forwards traffic only until FastEthernet0/1 comes back up. D. FastEthernet0/2 forwards traffic indefinitely. Answer: D
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: Use the switchport backup interface interface configuration command on a Layer 2 interface to configure Flex Links, a pair of interfaces that provide backup to each other. Use the no form of this command to remove the Flex Links configuration. With Flex Links configured, one link acts as the primary interface and forwards traffic, while the other interface is in standby mode, ready to begin forwarding traffic if the primary link shuts down. The interface being configured is referred to as the active link; the specified interface is identified as the backup link. The feature provides an alternative to the Spanning Tree Protocol (STP), allowing users to turn off STP and still retain basic link redundancy. Reference:
