NEW QUESTION: 3 Which setting of :SYSTEM.MESSAGE_LEVEL suppresses all system messages?
A. 0
B. 1
C. 2
D. You cannot use :SYSTEM.MESSAGE_LEVEL to suppress all system messages
E. 3
Answer: D
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: Controlling System Messages You can prevent system messages from being issued, based on their severity level. FormsBuilder classifies every message with a severity level that indicates how critical or trivial the information is; the higher the numbers, the more critical the message. There are six levels that you can affect. Note: Suppressing Messages According to Their Severity In a trigger, you can specify that only messages above a specified severity level are to be issued by the form. You do this by assigning a value to the MESSAGE_LEVEL system variable. Forms then issues only those messages that are above the severity level defined in this variable. The default value for MESSAGE_LEVEL (at form startup) is 0. This means that messages of all severities are displayed.
