C. Cyclic Redundancy Check (CRC)
D. The Biba Security model
Answer: BExplanation:RAID systems are mostly concerned with availability and performance.All of the following were all concerned with integrity, only RAID was NOT mostly concerned withIntegrity:Cyclic Redundancy Check: A cyclic redundancy check (CRC) is a type of function that takes asinput a data stream of unlimited length and produces as output a value of a certain fixed size. Theterm CRC is often used to denote either the function or the function's output. A CRC can be usedin the same way as a checksum to detect accidental alteration of data during transmission orstorage. CRCs are popular because they are simple to implement in binary hardware, are easy toanalyze mathematically, and are particularly good at detecting common errors caused by noise in transmission channels.Hashing Algorithms: In cryptography, a cryptographic hash function is a hash function with certainadditional security properties to make it suitable for use as a primitive in various informationsecurity applications, such as authentication and message integrity. A hash function takes a longstring (or 'message') of any length as input and produces a fixed length string as output,sometimes termed a message digest or a digital fingerprint. EnlargeAbove you see a hash function at workIn various standards and applications, the two most-commonly used hash functions are MD5 andSHA-1. In 2005, security flaws were identified in both algorithms. Many security professionalshave started making use of SHA-256 and SHA-512 which are stronger hashing algorithms.The Biba Security Model:The Biba Integrity Model was developed to circumvent a weakness in the Bell-LaPadula computeroperating system protection model which did not include the possibility of implicit deletion ofsecurity objects by writing to them.In general, preservation of integrity has three goals:Prevent data modification by unauthorized partiesPrevent unauthorized data modification by authorized partiesMaintain internal and external consistency (i.e. data reflects the real world)The Biba model address only the first goal of integrity.
