NEW QUESTION: 1 You are designing a data warehouse for a fresh food distribution business that stores sales by individual product. It stores sales targets by product category. Products are classified into subcategories and categories. Each product is included in only a single product subcategory, and each subcategory is included in only a single category. The data warehouse will be a data source for an Analysis Services cube. The data warehouse contains two fact tables: factSales, used to record daily sales by product; factProductTarget, used to record the monthly sales targets by product category. Reports must be developed against the warehouse that reports product sales by product, category and subcategory, and product sales targets. You need to design the product dimension. The solution should use as few tables as possible while supporting all the requirements. What should you do? A. Create three product tables, dimProduct, dimProductCategory, and dimProductSubcategory, and a fourth bridge table that joins products to their appropriate category and subcategory table records with foreign key constraints. Direct the cube developer to use key granularity attributes. B. Create three product tables, dimProduct, dimProductCategory, and dimProductSubcategory. Connect factSales to all three product tables and connect factProductTarget to dimProductCategory with foreign key constraints. Direct the cube developer to use key granularity attributes. C. Create two product tables, dimProduct and dimProductCategory. Connect factSales to dimProduct and factProductTarget to dimProductCategory with foreign key constraints. Direct the cube developer to use key granularity attributes. D. Create one product table, dimProduct, which contains product detail, category, and subcategory columns.
