NEW QUESTION: 3 You are a licensing specialist. Your customer is Blue Yonder Airlines, a small regional airline company. Company Background Blue Yonder Airlines has three locations across the country. Blue Yonder Airlines recently purchased a smaller airline company. Network Description Blue Yonder Airlines has three servers, one in each of its three locations. The servers run Microsoft Windows NT Server 4.0, Microsoft Exchange Server 5.5, and Microsoft SQL Server 7.0. Its three locations contain a total of 120 desktops. Each desktop runs either Windows 98 or Windows XP Professional and either Microsoft Office 2000 Standard or Office 2000 Professional. The smaller company has two locations, two servers running Windows NT Server 4.0, and 50 desktops running Windows NT Workstation 4.0. Two employees in the Blue Yonder Airlines IT department are responsible for administering and supporting all of the software and hardware for both companies. Current Licensing Solution For both companies, software is currently acquired ad hoc from the original equipment manufacturer (OEM) or by retail purchases. Business Goals Management of Blue Yonder Airlines wants to upgrade both companies to the latest version of specialized industry software, which requires Windows 2000 Server, Windows 2000 Professional, Exchange 2000 Server, and SQL Server 2000. The industry software has not yet been approved for compatibility with the latest versions of Microsoft software. Because Blue Yonder Airlines is experiencing problems in tracking their license purchase history, management wants to conduct an internal audit. End of repeated scenario You need to
