NEW QUESTION: 1A. Option DB. Option AC. Option CD. Option B Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 2 $ orapwd file = orapworcl entries = 10 ignorecase = NA. Option DB. Option A C. Option ED. Option CE. Option B Answer: A, B Explanation: * You can create a password file using the password file creation utility, ORAPWD. * Adding Users to a Password File When you grant SYSDBA or SYSOPER privileges to a user, that user's name and privilege information are added to the password file. If the server does not have an EXCLUSIVE password file (that is, if the initialization parameter REMOTE_LOGIN_PASSWORDFILE is NONE or SHARED, or the password file is missing), Oracle Database issues an error if you attempt to grant these privileges. A user's name remains in the password file only as long as that user has at least one of these two privileges. If you revoke both of these privileges, Oracle Database removes the user from the password file. * The syntax of the ORAPWD command is as follows: ORAPWD FILE=filename [ENTRIES=numusers] [FORCE={Y|N}] [IGNORECASE={Y|N}] [NOSYSDBA={Y|N}] * IGNORECASE If this argument is set to y, passwords are case-insensitive. That is, case is ignored when comparing the password that the user supplies during login with the password in the password file.
