Answer: C,D

NEW QUESTION: 2Fusion security authorizes end users to access which securable application artifacts created using Oracle Application Development Framework (Oracle ADF)? A. Individual permissions to access work areas, dashboards, task flows, pages, reports batch programs, and BI subject areas

B. Multiuser permission with validation of password length, alphanumeric, and special character usage
C. Set of users requesting access based on the job level
D. individual permission to access web services and webpages only
E. Individual permission to reset their password for the login application
Answer: C
Explanation:Note: Oracle Fusion Applications is secure as delivered. The Oracle Fusion security approach tightly coordinates various security concerns of the enterprise, including:
*The ability to define security policies to specify the allowed operations on application resources, including viewing and editing data and invoking functions of the application.
*The ability to enforce security policies by roles assigned to end users, and not directly enforced on the end users of the system. (C)

NEW QUESTION: 3The _____ that computers are _____ educational tools has led many parents to believe that children don't need to be monitored when using the computer, as they do when watching television.
A. argument . . effective
B. belief . . sophisticated
C. misconception . . benign
D. myth . . inimical
E. hypothesis . . powerful
Answer: C
Explanation:The missing words should suggest a belief about computers that would lead parents to let their children use the devices without being watched. Only choice B works, because only benign (harmless) is sufficiently positive to suggest that idea.
