NEW QUESTION: 3 As you have seen in the figure, All Lines of Business are Impacted by Master Data Quality Issues, Master Data Management is not just a topic for customer IT departments. As a matter of fact, SAP often talks to the department of the Chief Information Officer (CIO) about MDM first. Most times the main drivers behind a customer's master data initiative, is certain Lines of Business (LoBs). So when approaching organizations to discuss SAP MDG, make sure that the LoBs get involved as early in the process as possible. The following are some examples that we have seen customers talking about:
A. Financials: Many companies are trying to accomplish a fast financial close. However, they struggle with inconsistent, de-central definitions of financial entities, such as charts of accounts or profit centers, that must be mapped and translated each and every time during the financial closing and financial consolidation process. If you had consistent and reliable data that is only maintained once, centrally, and used everywhere the financial close process would speed up.
B. Sales: If you head sales for a certain product line or a region, you do not want to see the same customer being confused by addressing them multiple times based on duplicates in your system with different IDs. Also sending just-in-time (JIT) deliveries to the wrong address of a customer can negatively impact their experience with your company and impact your business.
C. None of these.
D. Supply Chain: you with critical materials for your production process and are frustrating your customers with extended delays due to supply chain inefficiencies.
Answer: A,B,D
