NEW QUESTION: 1 DRAG DROP You need to implement resource security and authentication. For each requirement, which solution should you implement? To answer, drag the appropriate solution to the correct requirement. Each solution may be used once, more than once, or not at all. You may need to drag the split bar between panes or scroll to view content. Answer:
Explanation:

NEW QUESTION: 2 A company performs on-site inspections and services for air industrial equipment. Field technicians must perform a series of maintenance checks every time they visit a customer site. Every technician performs maintenance tasks in a different order. Some technicians miss steps. You need to ensure that all technicians perform the same steps in the same order. What should you use? A. Business process flow B. Virtual Agent C. AI Builder D. Business rule Answer: A
Explanation: Explanation You can help ensure that people enter data consistently and follow the same steps every time they work with a customer by creating a business process flow. For example, you might want to create a business process flow to have everyone handle customer service requests the same way, or to require that people get approval for an invoice before submitting an order. Business process flows use the same underlying technology as other processes, but the capabilities that they provide are very different from other features that use processes. Reference:

NEW QUESTION: 4 Your network contains an Active Directory domain named contoso.com. The domain contains two member servers named Server1 and Server2. All servers run Windows Server 2012 R2. Server1 and Server2 have the Failover Clustering feature installed. The servers are configured as nodes in a failover cluster named Cluster1. Cluster1 hosts an application named App1. You need to ensure that Server2 handles all of the client requests to the cluster for App1. The solution must ensure that if Server2 fails, Server1 becomes the active node for App1. What should you configure? A. The Scale-Out File Server B. A file server for general use C. The possible owner D. Affinity - Single E. The failover settings F. Quick migration G. Live migration H. Affinity - None I. The preferred owner J. The host priority K. The Handling priority L. The cluster quorum settings Answer: I
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: The preferred owner in a 2 server cluster will always be the active node unless it is down. <http://www.sqlservercentral.com/Forums/Topic1174454-146-1.aspx#bm1174835> Difference between possible owners and preferred owners Possible owners are defined at the resource level and dictate which nodes in the Windows cluster are able to service this resource For instance, you have a 3 node cluster with Node A, Node B and Node C. You have a clustered disk resource "MyClusteredDisk", if you remove Node C from the possible owners of the clustered disk resource "MyClusteredDisk" then this disk will never be failed over to Node C. Preferred owners are defined at the resource group level and define the preferred node ownership within the Windows cluster. For instance, you have a 3 node cluster with Node A, Node B and Node C. You have a cluster resource group "MyClusteredGroup" which contains various disk, IP, network name and service resources. Nodes A, B and C are all possible owners but Node B is set as the preferred owner and is currently the active node. The resource group fails over to Node C as Node B stops responding on the Public network due to a failed NIC. In the Resource group properties on the failback tab you have this set to immediate. You fix the NIC issue on Node B and bring it back up on the network. The resource group currently active on Node C will without warning immediately attempt to failback to Node B. Not a good idea if this is a Production SQL Server instance, so use caution when configuring preferred owners and failback http:// support.microsoft.com/kb/299631/en-us Failover behavior on clusters of three or more nodes This article documents the logic by which groups fail from one node to another when there are 3 or more cluster node members. The movement of a group can be caused by an administrator who manually moves a group or by a node or resource failure. Where the group moves depends on how the move is initiated and whether the Preferred Owner list is set.
