NEW QUESTION: 3 Which statement is TRUE for route-based VPN's? A. Route-based VPN's replace domain-based VPN's. B. Dynamic-routing protocols are not required. C. IP Pool NAT must be configured on each Gateway. D. Route-based VPN's are a form of partial overlap VPN Domain. Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 4 Choose three actions by which you can set a text item as read-only. A. Navigate to Page Definition > Edit that item > Navigate to Read Only section > Select "Always" from the Read Only Condition Type B. Set the item as Text Field (Disabled, saves state) C. Set the item as Password D. Set the item as Text Field (Disabled, does not save state) E. Set the item as Text Field (always submits page when Enter pressed) Answer: A,B,D Explanation: A: Change Items to Display-only To make the item P2_REC_CREATE_DATE display-only: * Go to the Page Definition for page 2. Click Edit Page 2 on the Developer toolbar. * Under Items, select the item P2_REC_CREATE_DATE. * From the Display As list in the Name section, select Text Field (Disabled, saves state). * Click Apply Changes. C: Read Only Condition Type: Defines conditions and expressions that determine if the item displays as read-only. Use this attribute to display certain items to a set of users as updatable, while displaying that same set of items to others users as nonupdatable. Reduces the need to code duplicate interfaces for different users. D : For Application Item Protection you can use: / Restricted - May not be set from browser The item may not be altered using the URL or POSTDATA. Use this option when you want to restrict the way that the item value can be set to internal processes, computations, and so on. This attribute is applicable only to items that cannot be used as data entry items and is always observed even if Session State Protection is disabled. Use this attribute for application items or for page items with any of these Display As types: * Display as Text (escape special characters, does not save state) * Display as Text (does not save state) * Display as Text (based on LOV, does not save state) * Display as Text (based on PLSQL, does not save state) * Text Field (Disabled, does not save state) * Stop and Start HTML Table (Displays label only)

Incorrect answers: Not B: The item should be a text item, not another item type. Note: An item can be a text field, text area, password, select list, check box, and so on. Item attributes affect the display and behavior of items on a page. For example, these attributes can impact where a label displays, how large an item is, and whether or not the item is displayed next to, or below the previous item. The value of an item is automatically stored into the application's session state, which can be referenced at any point within the user's session.
