NEW QUESTION: 2Your application is currently running on Amazon EC2 instances behind a load balancer. Your management has decided to use a Blue/Green deployment strategy. How should you implement this for each deployment?A. Create a new load balancer with new Amazon EC2 instances, carry out the deployment, and then switch DNS over to the new load balancer using Amazon Route 53 after testing.B. Using AWS CloudFormation, create a test stack for validating the code, and then deploy the code to each production Amazon EC2 instance.C. Set up Amazon Route 53 health checks to fail over from any Amazon EC2 instance that is currently being deployed to.D. Launch more Amazon EC2 instances to ensure high availability, de-register each Amazon EC2 instance from the load balancer, upgrade it, and test it, and then register it again with the load balancer.Answer: AExplanation:The below diagram shows how this can be done1) First create a new ELBwhich will be used to point to the new production changes.2) Use the Weighted Route policy for Route53 to distribute the traffic to the 2 ELB's based on a80- 20% traffic scenario. This is the normal case, the % can be changed based on the requirement.3) Finally when all changes have been tested, Route53 can be set to 100% for the new ELB.Option A is incorrect because this is a failover scenario and cannot be used for Blue green deployments. In Blue Green deployments, you need to have 2 environments running side by side.Option B is incorrect, because you need to have a production stack with the changes which will run side by side. Option D is incorrect because this is not a blue green deployment scenario. You cannot control which users will go the new EC2 instances.
