NEW QUESTION: 3 What is a potential downside of having more than four paths per datastore?
A. limits the storage protocols
B. limits the path selection policies
C. increases storage latency for VMD
D. limits the number of LUNs per host
Answer: D
Explanation: Explanation/Reference:
Explanation: While using more than the required number of paths restricts the number of LUNs you can present to a host, it may also affect host resources such as CPU cycles and also every path from a host requires an initiator record and there may be a limit to the number of initiators per storage system. Large numbers of paths i.e in excess of 4 per host may be required in environments where bursts of I/O from other hosts sharing the storage system ports are unpredictable and severe, for example boot storm scenarios where 8 paths per host might be plausible.
