NEW QUESTION: 1 A company has developed a Ruby on Rails content management platform. Currently, OpsWorks with several stacks for dev, staging, and production is being used to deploy and manage the application. Now the company wants to start using Python instead of Ruby. How should the company manage the new deployment? Choose the correct answer from the options below.
A. Create a new stack that contains a new layer with the Python code. To cut over to the new stack the company should consider using Blue/Green deployment
B. Create a new stack that contains the Python application code and manages separate deployments of the application via the secondary stack.
C. Create a new stack that contains the Python application code and manage separate deployments of the application via the secondary stack using the deploy lifecycle action to implement the application code.
D. Update the existing stack with Python application code and deploy the application using the deploy life-cycle action to implement the application code.
Answer: A
Explanation: Explanation Blue/green deployment is a technique for releasing applications by shifting traffic between two identical environments running different versions of the application. Blue/green deployments can mitigate common risks associated with deploying software, such as downtime and rollback capability. Please find the below link on a white paper for blue green deployments*

NEW QUESTION: 3Which of the following refers to a digital storage system directly attached to a server or workstation, without a storage network in between?A. SASB. SAN C. NASD. DAS

Answer: DExplanation:Explanation/Reference:Explanation:Direct-attached storage (DAS) refers to a digital storage system directly attached to a server or workstation, without a storage network in between.A typical DAS system is made of a data storage device connected directly to a computer through a host bus adapter (HBA). Between those two points, there is no network device (like hub, switch, or router), and this is the main characteristic of DAS. The main protocols used for DAS connections are ATA, SATA, eSATA, SCSI, SAS, and Fibre Channel. Incorrect Answers:B: Serial Attached SCSI (SAS) is a computer bus used to move data to and from computer storage devices such as hard drives and tape drives. SAS depends on a point-to-point serial protocol that replaces the parallel SCSI bus technology. SAS offers backwards-compatibility with second-generation SATA drives.C: Network Attached Storage (NAS) is the hard disk storage that is set up with its own network address rather than being attached to the unit computer that is serving applications of a network's workspace users. A fully-featured operating system is not needed on a NAS device, so often a stripped-down operating system is used. NAS provides both storage and a file system.D: SAN stands for storage area network. It is an architecture to attach remote computer storage devices to servers in such a way that the devices appear as locally attached to the operating system. Sharing storage usually simplifies storage administration and adds flexibility since cables and storage devices do not have to be physically moved to shift storage from one server to another. SANs also tend to enable more effective disaster recovery processes.
