NEW QUESTION: 2 The senior official _____ at the insinuation that his country's international trade policies were directly _____ the region's economic woes.
A. staggered.
B. inhibited.
C. riled.
D. accountable to.
E. blundered.
F. implicated in.
G. wrinkled.
H. at fault for.
I. balked.
J. responsible for.
Answer: E
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: If you know that insinuation is a negative word, you can guess that the first blank will describe a logical response to a negative thing. Balk is a common word in this situation, but if you don't know that use the process of elimination. You can eliminate B and probably D because they are not negative words. Move to the next blank. If the official's response is negative, it's most logical that he is accused of having something to do with the economic woes. Eliminate (C) That leaves A and E as the most likely answers. But you don't "rile" at something; it's not good usage. Eliminate E and you are left with (A)
