Which issue with the plan should the architect correct? A. Add stacking modules and cables. B. Change the v2 modules to v3 modules. C. Change the power supply type. D. Add two QSPF+ MP0 SR4 transceivers. Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 2 Your network contains two Active Directory forests named contoso.com and fabrikam.com. Each forest contains a single domain. A two-way forest trust exists between the forests. Selective authentication is enabled on the trust. Contoso.com contains a group named Group1. Fabrikam.com contains a server named Server1. You need to ensure that users in Group1 can access resources on Server1. What should you modify? A. the UPN suffixes of the contoso.com forest B. the UPN suffixes of the fabrikam.com forest C. the permissions of the Group1 group D. the permissions of the Server1 computer account Answer: C Explanation: Group1 must get the 'Allowed To Authenticate' permission on Server1, so I'd go for A, as given. Answer D may sound tempting, but it speaks of permissions of the Server1 computer account. The users must also be assigned the Allowed To Authenticate permission on the computer object in the domain. 1. Open the Active Directory Users And Computers snap-in and make sure that Advanced Features is selected on the View menu. 2. Open the properties of the computer to which trusted users should be allowed to authenticate—that is, the computer that trusted users will log on to or that contains resources to which trusted users have been given permissions. 3. On the Security tab, add the trusted users or a group that contains them and select the Allow check box for the Allowed To Authenticate permission.
