NEW QUESTION: 1A. Option BB. Option AC. Option DD. Option CAnswer: C*Explanation:
ExplanationA mail exchanger record (MX record) is a DNS record used by email servers to determine the name of the email server responsible for accepting email for the recipient's domain. For example a user sends an email to [\[email protected\]](#). The sending user's email server will query the somedomain.com DNS zone for an MX record for the domain. The MX record will specify the hostname of the email server responsible for accepting email for the somedomain.com domain, for example, mailserver.somedomain.com. The sending email server will then perform a second DNS query to resolve mailserver.somedomain.com to an IP address. The sending mailserver will then forward the email to the destination mail server.
