Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 2 Which tasks is the session management path responsible for? (Choose three.)
A. Performing route lookup
B. Checking TCP sequence numbers
C. Checking packets against the access list
D. Performing session lookup
E. Verifying IP checksums
F. Allocating NAT translations
Answer: A,C,F
Explanation: Explanation The ASA has to check the packet against access lists and perform other tasks to determine if the packet is allowed or denied. To perform this check, the first packet of the session goes through the " session management path," and depending on the type of traffic, it might also pass through the "control plane path." The session management path is responsible for the following tasks:
+ Performing the access list checks
+ Performing route lookups
+ Allocating NAT translations (xlates)
+ Establishing sessions in the "fast path"

NEW QUESTION: 4 An iterated block cipher encrypts by breaking the plaintext block into two halves and, with a subkey, applying a round transformation to one of the halves. Then, the output of this transformation is XORed with the remaining half. The round is completed by swapping the two halves. This type of cipher is known as: A. Feistel B. RC6 C. RC4 D.

Diffie-Hellman
Answer: A
Explanation: The question stem describes one round of a Feistel cipher. This algorithm was developed by an IBM team led by Horst Feistel. (h. Feistel, Cryptography and Computer Privacy, Scientific American, v.228, n.5, May 1973) The algorithm was called Lucifer and was the basis for the Data Encryption Standard (DES). In answer a, RC4 is a variable key size stream cipher developed by Ronald Rivest. In this type of cipher, a sequence of bits that are the key is bit-wise XORed with the plaintext. * Diffie-Hellman describes the first public key algorithm and is based on the difficulty of calculating discrete logarithms in a finite field. (W. Diffie and M.e. Hellman, New Directions in Cryptography, IEEE Transactions on Information Theory, v. IT-22, n. 6, Nov 1976). It is used for exchanging keys. RC6, in answer c, is a fast block cipher designed by Rivest, Sidney and Yin. In RC6, the block size, the key size and the number of rounds are variable. The key size can be no larger than 2040 bits. RC6 was one of the five finalists in the Advanced Encryption Standard (AES) competition.
