NEW QUESTION: 3 Which of the following statements pertaining to disaster recovery is incorrect? A. A salvage team's task is to ensure that the primary site returns to normal processing conditions. B. When returning to the primary site, the most critical applications should be brought back first. C. A recovery team's primary task is to get the pre-defined critical business functions at the alternate backup processing site. D. The disaster recovery plan should include how the company will return from the alternate site to the primary site. Answer: B
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: It's interesting to note that the steps to resume normal processing operations will be different than the steps in the recovery plan; that is, the least critical work should be brought back first to the primary site. My explanation: at the point where the primary site is ready to receive operations again, less critical systems should be brought back first because one has to make sure that everything will be running smoothly at the primary site before returning critical systems, which are already operating normally at the recovery site. This will limit the possible interruption of processing to a minimum for most critical systems, thus making it the best option.
