NEW QUESTION: 1The government health service in country H employs well over 100,000 staff in various locations throughout the country. Traditionally, local management has had high levels of autonomy in relation to personnel issues and there are several different human resources (HR) managers located across various regions. The government has decided to introduce a completely new HR/payroll information system to have just one database containing all relevant information about every staff member on the payroll (start date, job title, salary and all other details) and to use this information to begin streamlining recruitment and HR policies. The government has outsourced the system's development to a reputable company. Which of the following are disadvantages associated with this IT project?A. The government is very heavily dependent on the contractor to whom this assignment is outsourced and if they do not to perform as required this could have serious consequences.B. There is a risk that the system will not capture all of the existing terms and conditions of staff, thus leading to industrial relations problems later.C. The amount of data storage space required to run the system may not be available.D. The system could make it more difficult to employ specialist medical staff on terms and conditions which are different from the normal terms and conditions available.E. There is a risk that significant anomalies in the current system will be highlighted.F. Any initial problems in running the system could have serious repercussions as it could lead to, for example, staff not being paid, payroll tax not being properly collected, and similar difficulties.Answer: A,B,F

NEW QUESTION: 2Your network contains an Active Directory forest named contoso.com. The forest contains a single domain. All domain controllers run Windows Server 2012 R2. The domain contains two domain controllers. The domain controllers are configured as shown in the following table. Active Directory Recycle Bin is enabled. You discover that a support technician accidentally removed 100 users from an Active Directory group named Group1 an hour ago. You need to restore the membership of Group1. What should you do?A. Perform a non-authoritative restore.B. Recover the items by using Active Directory Recycle Bin.C. Perform an authoritative restore.D. Apply a virtual machine snapshot to VM1.E. Explanation: Authoritative restore allows the administrator to recover a domain controller, restore it to a specific point in time, and mark objects in Active Directory as being authoritative with respect to their replication partners. For example, you might need to perform an authoritative restore if an administrator inadvertently deletes an organizational unit containing a large number of users. If you restore the server from tape, the normal replication process would not restore the inadvertently deleted organizational unit. Authoritative restore allows you to mark the organizational unit as authoritative and force the replication process to restore it to all of the other domain controllers in the domain. Incorrect: Not C: A nonauthoritative restore returns the domain controller to its state at the time of backup and then allows normal replication to overwrite that state with any changes that occurred after the backup was taken. After you restore the system state, the domain controller queries its replication partners. The replication partners replicate any changes to the restored domain controller, ensuring that the domain controller has an accurate and updated copy of the Active Directory database. Reference: Performing an Authoritative Restore What should you do? A. Export and import data by using Dsamain. B. Apply a virtual machine snapshot to VM1. C. Recover the items by using Active Directory Recycle Bin. D. Modify the isRecycled attribute of Group1. Answer: C
