NEW QUESTION: 2 A security administrator notices a recent increase in workstations becoming compromised by malware. Often, the malware is delivered via drive-by downloads, from malware hosting websites, and is not being detected by the corporate antivirus. Which of the following solutions would provide the BEST protection for the company?A. Deploy a web based gateway antivirus server to intercept viruses before they enter the network.B. Deploy a cloud-based content filter and enable the appropriate category to prevent further infections.C. Deploy a WAF to inspect and block all web traffic which may contain malware and exploits.D. Increase the frequency of antivirus downloads and install updates to all workstations.Answer: B
Explanation:The undetected malware gets delivered to the company via drive-by and malware hosing websites.Display filters and Capture filters when deployed on the cloud-based content should provide the protection required.Incorrect Answers:A: The company already has an antivirus application that is not detecting the malware, increasing the frequency of antivirus downloads and installing the updates will thus not address the issue of the drive-by downloads and malware hosting websites.C: A WAF is designed to sit between a web client and a web server to analyze OSI Layer 7 traffic; this will not provide the required protection in this case. WAFs are not 100% effective.D: A web-based gateway antivirus is not going to negate the problem of drive-by downloads and malware hosting websites.References:Gregg, Michael, and Billy Haines, CASP CompTIA Advanced Security Practitioner Study Guide, JohnWiley & Sons, Indianapolis, 2012, pp. 116, 405-406
