NEW QUESTION: 1User jack, whose account is configured to use the korn shell, logs in and examines the value of his PATH environment variable:
jack@solaris: echo $PATH
/usr/gnu/bin:/usr/bin:/usr/sbin:/sbin
There is a shell script in jack's home directory called useradd:
-r-xr-xr-x 2 jack other 1239 2012-01-05 11:42 useradd
While in his home directory, jack attempts to run the script:
jack@solaris: useradd
What will happen, and why?
A. The command /user/sbin/useradd will execute, because it is the last match in the search path.
B. The command /user/sbin/useradd will execute, because it is the first match in the search path.
C. The useradd script will execute, because jack is in the same directory that the script is located in.
D. He will get a "file not found" error, because his home directory is not in his search path.
E. He will get a "file not found" error, because the current directory is not in his search path.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION: 2Which of the following scanning techniques helps to ensure that the standard software configuration is currently with the latest security patches and software, and helps to locate uncontrolled or unauthorized software?
A. Discovery Scanning
B. Workstation Scanning
C. Port Scanning
D. Server Scanning
Answer: B
Explanation: Workstation scanning provides help to ensure that the standard software configuration exists with the most recent security patches and software. It helps to locate uncontrolled or unauthorized software. A full workstation vulnerability scan of the standard corporate desktop configuration must be implemented on a regularly basis. Answer B is incorrect. The discovery scanning technique is used to gather adequate information regarding each network device to identify what type of device it is, its operating system, and if it is running any externally vulnerable services, like Web services, FTP, or email. Answer C is incorrect. A full server vulnerability scan helps to determine if the server OS has been configured to the corporate standards and identify if applications have been updated with the latest security patches and software versions. Answer A is incorrect. Port scanning technique describes the process of sending a data packet to a port to gather information about the state of the port.
